What will Zambia's energy demand look like in 2030? The government anticipates that peak demand will be at 8,000 MW by 2025 and 10,000 MW by 2030 (from around 3,000 MW in 2015). It also projects that the demand will be largely driven by mining and agricultural consumers and not residential consumers as projected in the COSS (Government of Zambia, 2015). 4. Zambia's renewable energy landscape

Does Zambia have a good solar system? Zambia benefits from excellent solar resources, with a specific production output between 1,600 and 1,800 kWh/kWp per year. The regions with the best re-sources are the south-west part of the country as well as the region around Lake Bangweulu, east of Mansa. What are the best business cases for energy storage? At present, the best business cases for energy storage complementary to the electricity grid as back-up or to improve power quality, or for off-grid energy uses, such as in remote areas. How much power does Zambia have in 2030? Thus, the installed capacity in Zambia in 2030 is composed as follows: 2,705 MW in hydro-power (including 1,080 MW for the Kariba complex and 990 MW for Kafue Gorge), 330 MW in coal, 85 MW in diesel, 110 MW in heavy oil and 89 MW in solar. In total, about 84% of the installed capacity is renewable. Is Zambia a copper producer? Zambia is the second largest producer of copper in Africa and its economy is heavily dependent on copper mining (at least 70% of total exports). Efforts to diversify economic activity or invest revenues from mining to other sectors of the economy have been limited. Does Zambia need hydropower? In recent years, Zambia has been able to improve its electricity supply but remains largely dependent on hydropower. This dependency represents a risk to the security of supply, as evidenced by the return of scheduled load shedding at the end of until February 2015, due to low water levels on the Zambezi River.
